The Adventurer is always seeking new thrills and experiences. They're the ones you'll often find participating in extreme sports, tackling challenging hiking trails, or diving into deep waters. Their sense of curiosity and appetite for adrenaline is contagious, and they inspire others to step out of their comfort zones.

2. The Culture Enthusiast

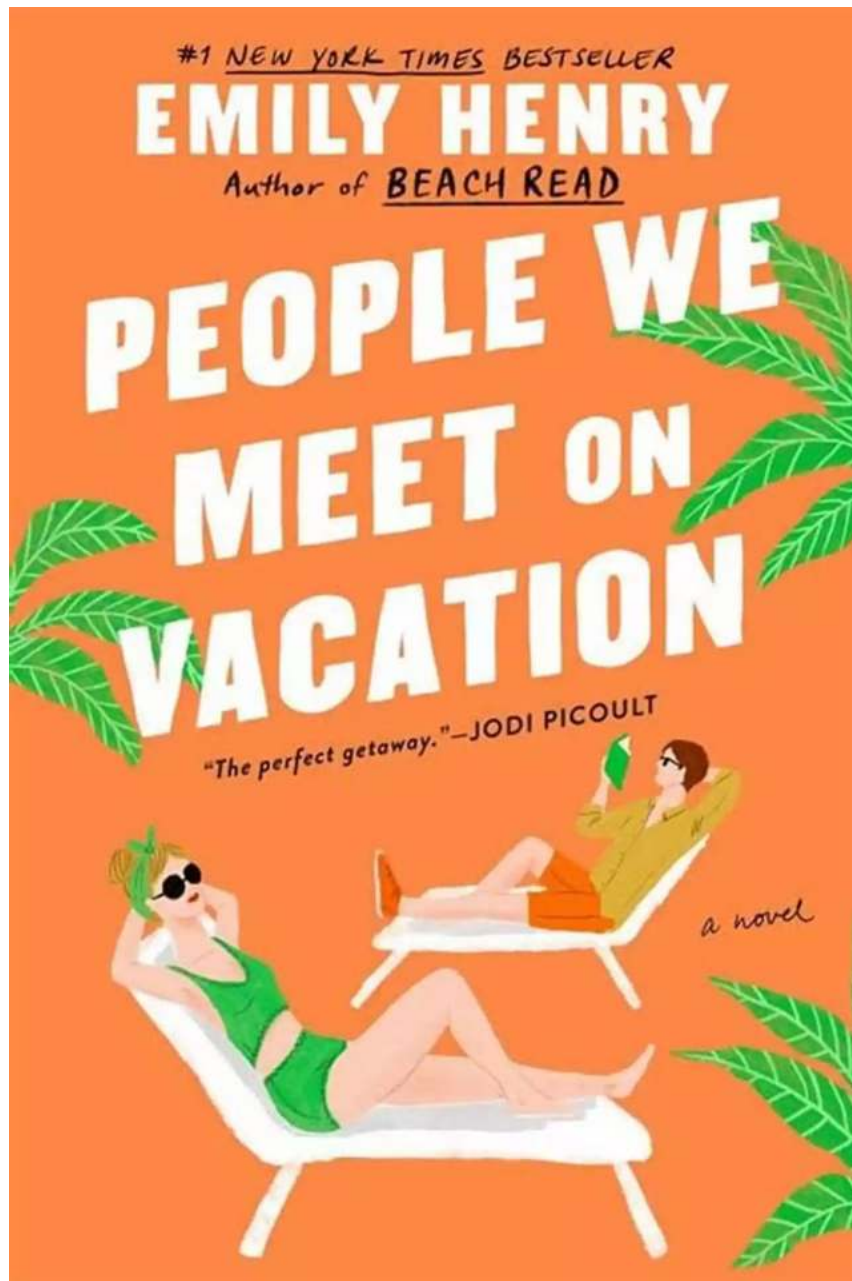

The Culture Enthusiast is eager to immerse themselves in the local customs, traditions, and history of the destination they're visiting. They make it a point to visit museums, art galleries, and historic landmarks, and they're always seen engaging in conversations with the locals to learn more about the local culture and heritage.

3. The Foodie

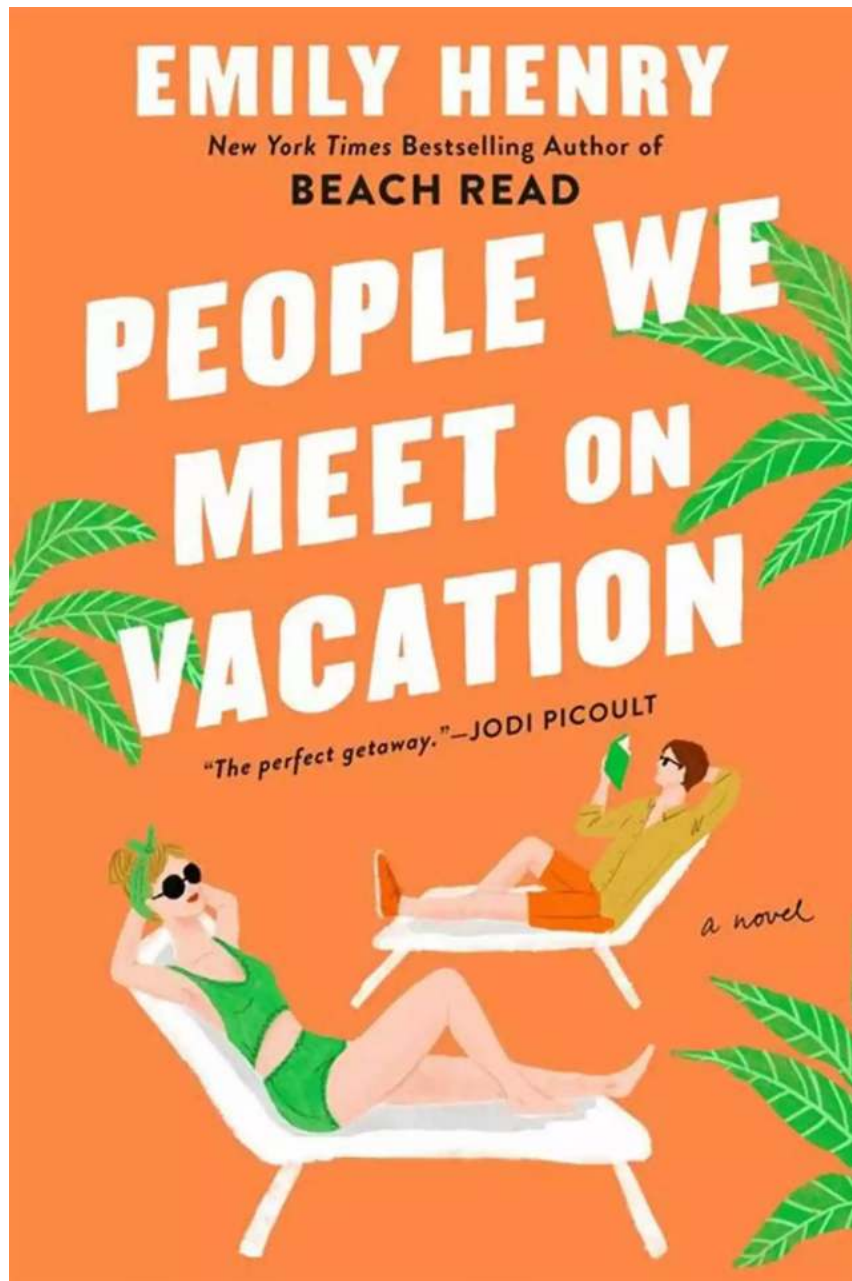

For the Foodie, vacation is synonymous with culinary adventures. They're on a mission to discover the most authentic and delectable dishes the destination has to offer. From street food to fine dining, the Foodie is always up for trying new flavors and secret recipes only known to the locals.

4. The Party Animal

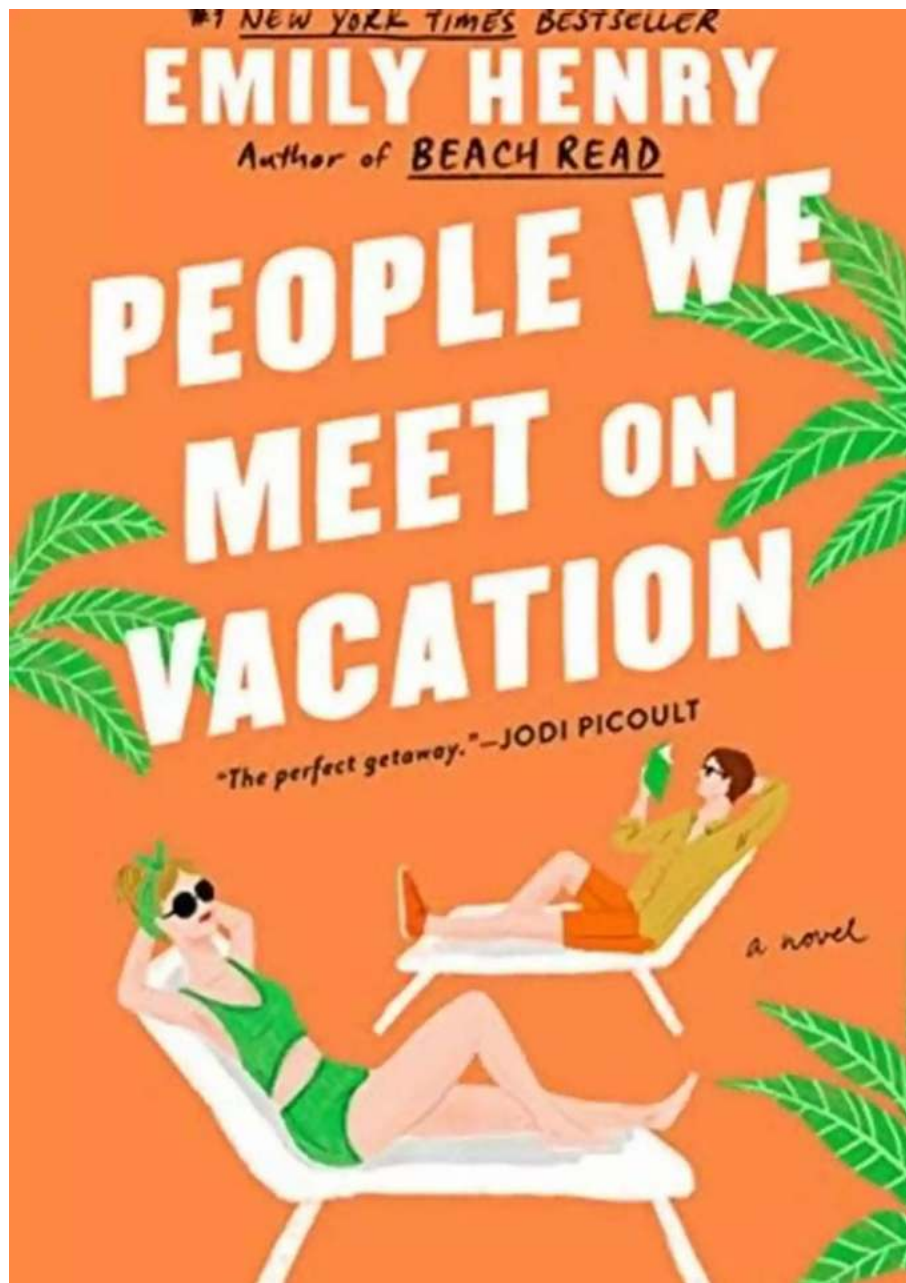

When the sun goes down, the Party Animal comes alive. They're the life of the party and always know the hottest clubs, bars, and beach parties in town. They thrive on the energy of socializing and dancing until dawn, and their contagious enthusiasm ensures everyone around them has a great time.

5. The Relaxation Guru

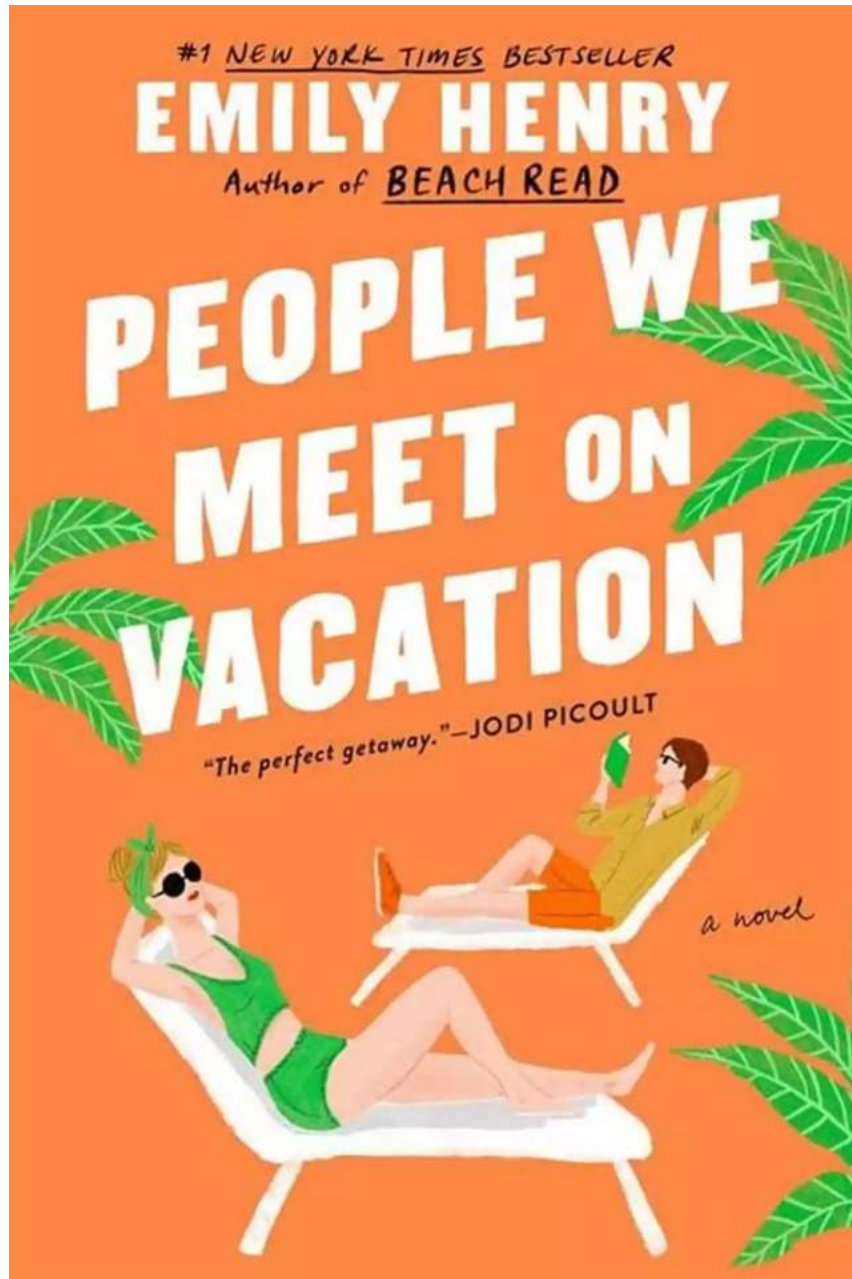

The Relaxation Guru knows how to take relaxation to a whole new level. They're experts at finding the best spots to unwind, be it a peaceful beach, a spa, or a tranquil yoga retreat. They embody the essence of vacation by fully embracing the concept of rest, rejuvenation, and self-care.

6. The History Buff

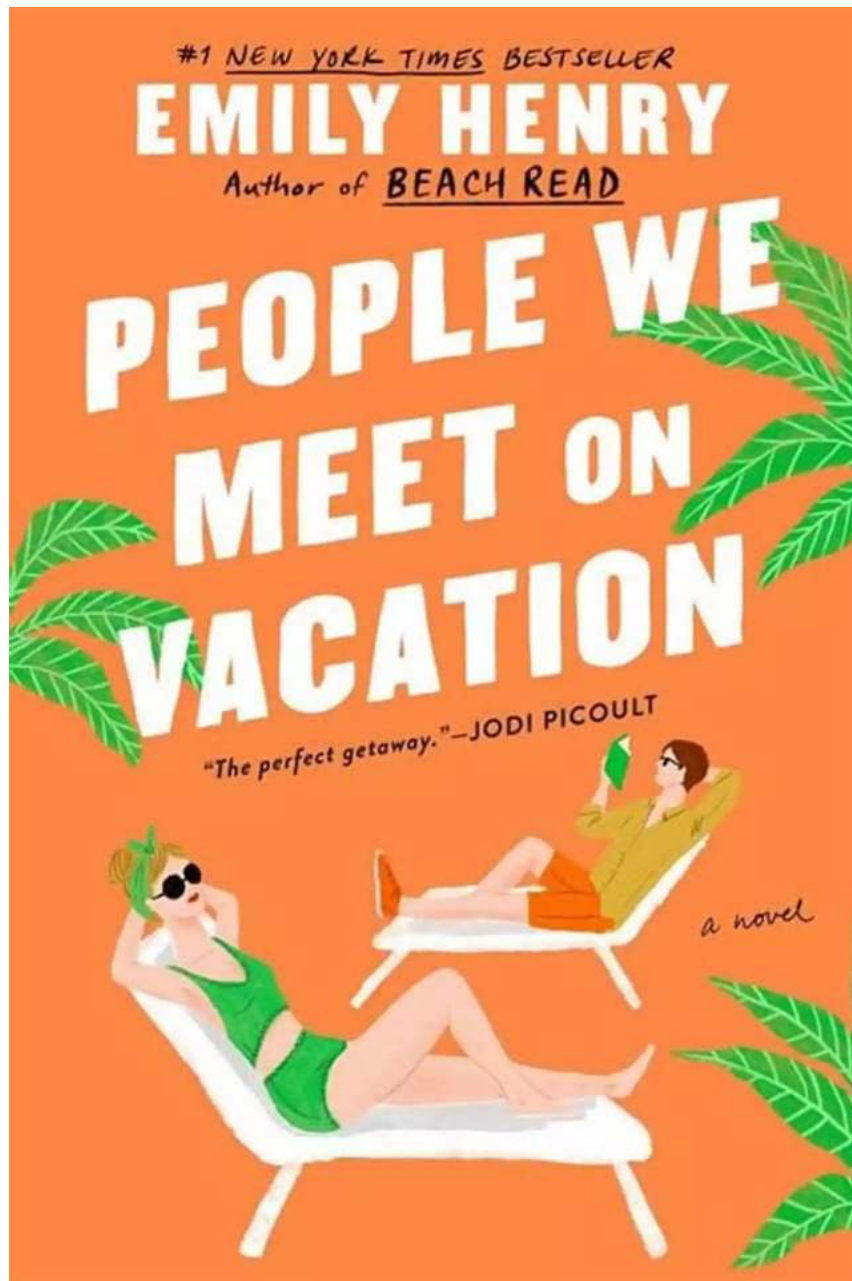

The History Buff is fascinated by the past and seeks out destinations rich in history and heritage. They can spend hours exploring ancient ruins, reading historical plaques, and engaging in conversations with local historians. Their love for the past paints a vivid picture of the destination's evolution throughout the centuries.

7. The Nature Lover

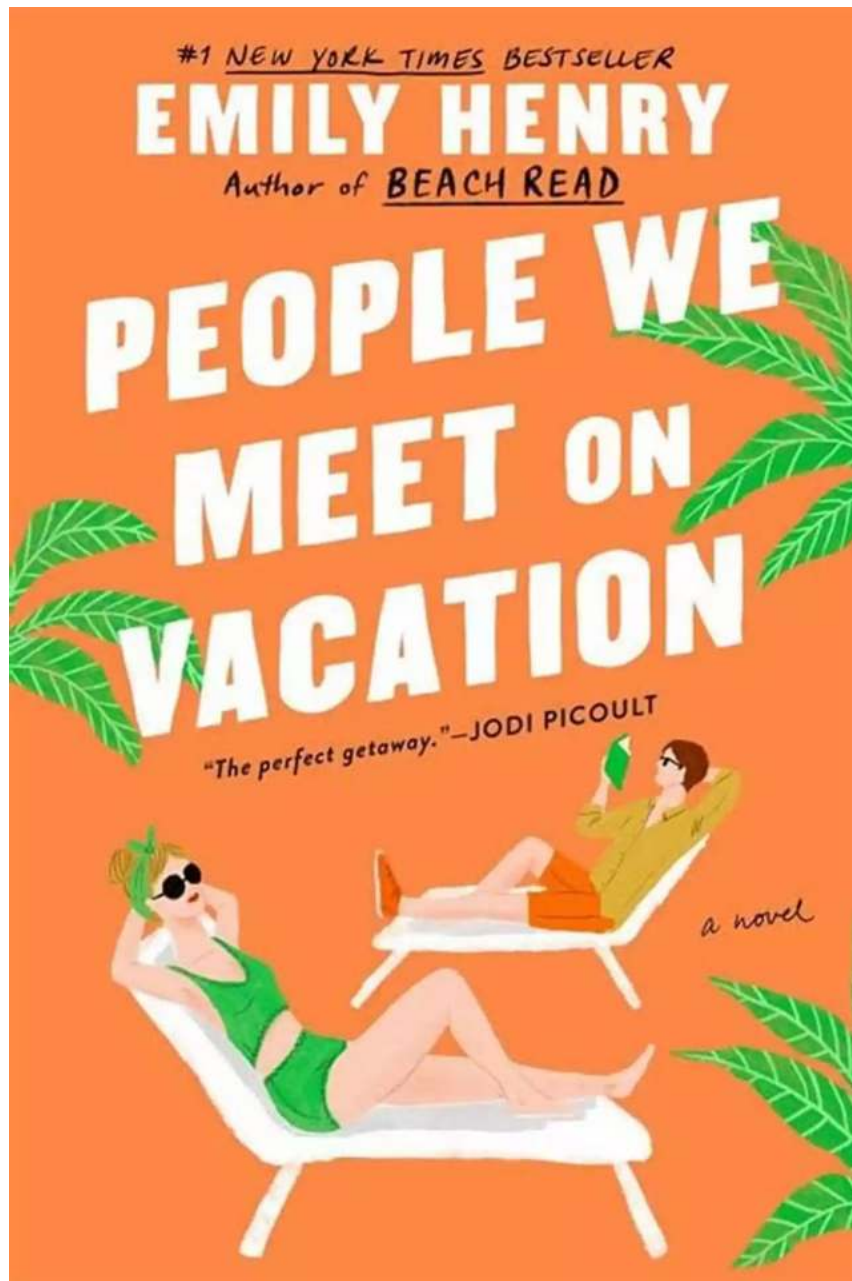

The Nature Lover finds solace and wonder in the great outdoors. They're drawn to destinations with breathtaking landscapes, national parks, and wildlife. They're often seen hiking trails, camping under the stars, and capturing the beauty of nature through their lenses.

8. The Thrill-Seeker

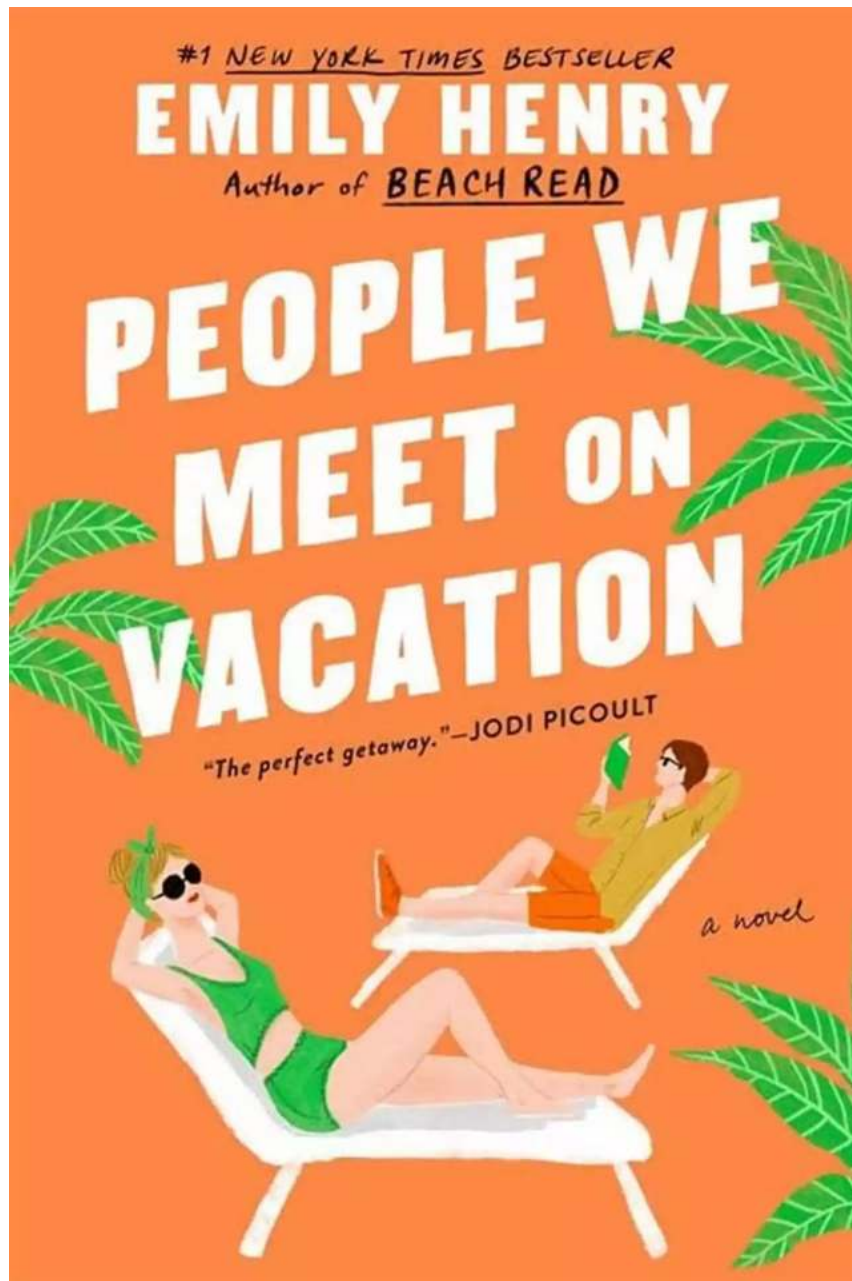

The Thrill-Seeker is always on the lookout for heart-pounding activities that give an adrenaline rush. From bungee jumping to skydiving, they're constantly pushing their limits and seeking out the next big adventure. They're driven by the desire to conquer their fears and feel alive.

9. The Family Traveler

The Family Traveler embarks on vacations filled with love, laughter, and cherished memories. They're dedicated to providing their loved ones with unforgettable experiences. With kids in tow, they explore child-friendly attractions, indulge in family-friendly activities, and create bonds that last a lifetime.

10. The Solo Wanderer

The Solo Wanderer is the embodiment of independence and self-discovery. They embark on journeys alone, immersing themselves in the unknown and venturing far beyond their comfort zone. They embrace the freedom to go wherever they please, whenever they please, and have incredible stories to tell from their solo adventures.

No matter which type of traveler you might be, opening up to these diverse individuals while on vacation can be a transformative experience. Each person you meet adds a unique flavor to your journey, enriching it with their stories, perspectives, and energy.

So, the next time you find yourself on a vacation, be sure to strike up a conversation with a fellow traveler. You never know who you might meet and what lasting impact they could have on your life.

From the #1 New York Times bestselling author of Book Lovers and Beach Read comes a sparkling novel that will leave you with the warm, hazy afterglow usually reserved for the best vacations.

Two best friends. Ten summer trips. One last chance to fall in love.

Poppy and Alex. Alex and Poppy. They have nothing in common. She's a wild child; he wears khakis. She has insatiable wanderlust; he prefers to stay home with a book. And somehow, ever since a fateful car share home from college many years ago, they are the very best of friends. For most of the year they live far apart—she's in New York City, and he's in their small hometown—but every summer, for a decade, they have taken one glorious week of vacation together.

Until two years ago, when they ruined everything. They haven't spoken since.

Poppy has everything she should want, but she's stuck in a rut. When someone asks when she was last truly happy, she knows, without a doubt, it was on that ill-fated, final trip with Alex. And so, she decides to convince her best friend to take one more vacation together—lay everything on the table, make it all right. Miraculously, he agrees.

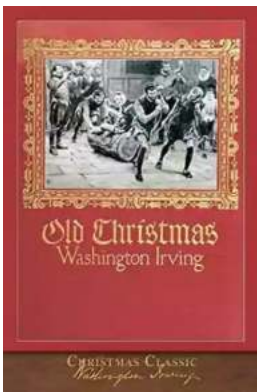

Now she has a week to fix everything. If only she can get around the one big truth that has always stood quietly in the middle of their seemingly perfect relationship. What could possibly go wrong?
